Reading and Writing

Part 4

Read the article about two lost dogs.

Are sentences 1 – 7 'Right' (A) or 'Wrong' (B)?

If there is not enough information to answer 'Right' (A) or 'Wrong' (B), choose 'Doesn't say' (C).

A police officer in Massachusetts was driving around the town of Brimfield when he found two dogs walking along the street. The police officer, Evan Baker, couldn't see anyone with the dogs. He started to look for the house where the dogs lived. He knocked on a few doors and he spoke to some of the neighbours but he couldn't find their home. Nobody knew where the dogs came from.

It was raining and the two small dogs were cold, so he decided to put the dogs into the police car. He took out his mobile phone and took some selfies with dogs in his car. Then, he put the photos on his Facebook page with a simple message: 'Let's find their home.'

Later that day, Lilly Davidson was surfing the internet when she saw the photos of her dogs in the back of a police car. She couldn't believe that someone found her dogs. She sent an email to Officer Baker, and now the two dogs are at home again and Lilly is the happiest girl in Massachusetts. 'Officer Baker is awesome and I'd like to thank him for finding my dogs,' said Lilly.

Example:

Are sentences 1–7 'Right' (A) or 'Wrong' (B)?

If there is not enough information to answer 'Right' (A) or 'Wrong' (B), choose 'Doesn't say' (C).

Message in a bottle

Morten Olsen was walking along the beach in Smidstrup in the north of Denmark when he looked down and saw a small, dark bottle. He opened it and saw that there was a piece of paper inside it. The note was from a young boy called Matt. It said that Matt was from London. It also had his name and his surname and his age. He was six years old. The last line said that his birthday was on 30 August.

The bottle had travelled from London to a beach in Denmark – that's a journey of about 1,300 kilometres. Morten took a photo of the bottle and the note. Then he posted it on the internet, because he wanted to find Matt and to tell him that he had his message. A lot of his friends posted Morten's photo and asked their friends to help Morten look for Matt. Finally, Matt's uncle saw the photo and now, he and Morten are good friends.

Example:

- 0 Morten was near the sea when he found the bottle.
☒ A Right                      B Wrong                      C Doesn't say
